CFPA pioneered the first successful Peace Voter Campaign in the nation in 1995, and has been conducting them every election year since. It is now a model for impacting elections for peace across the country.

To date, we have conducted over 100 Candidate Briefings and published Signature Ads featuring our Peace Voter Guides as half page ads in over 5 million newspapers in targeted races. Your support not only helps fund the ads, but shows broad grassroots support by including contributor names below the Peace Voter Guide for the targeted race. Please use the coupon on the right to support Ads in the maximum number of newspapers in our 2020 targeted races.

ANNUAL MULTIFAITH SERVICE AND CONFERENCE FOR PEACE

11:00 AM

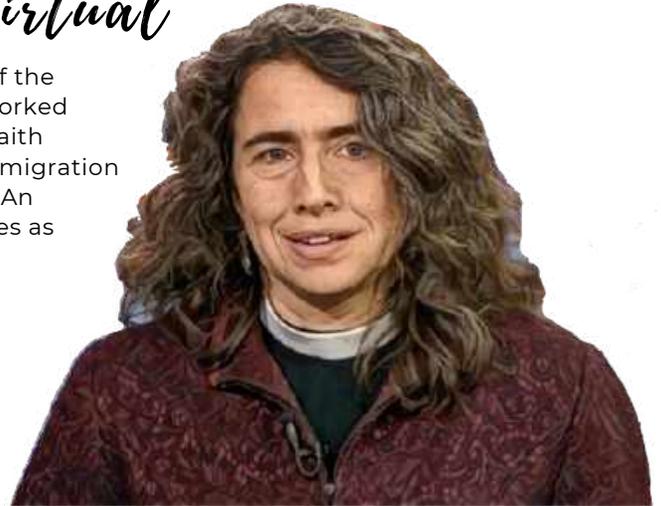

1:30 PM

November 15 - Virtual

The Rev. Dr. Chloe Breyer has been the Executive Director of the Interfaith Center of New York (ICNY) since 2007. ICNY has worked with hundreds of grassroots religious leaders from diverse faith traditions on issues of shared concern like police reform, immigration concerns, and combating anti-Semitism and Islamophobia. An Episcopal Priest in the Diocese of New York, Chloe also serves as Associate Priest at St. Philip's Church in Harlem.

THE REV. DR.
CHLOE BREYER

MORNING PREACHER

MAJ. DANNY SJURSEN

AFTERNOON SPEAKER

Maj. Danny Sjursen is a former U.S. Army strategist and former history instructor at West Point. He served tours with reconnaissance units in Iraq and Afghanistan. He has written a memoir and critical analysis of the Iraq War, Ghostriders of Baghdad: Soldiers, Civilians, and the Myth of the Surge. Sjursen is contributing editor at Antiwar.com. His work has appeared in the LA Times, NY Times, The Nation, HuffPost, The Hill, Salon, BuzzFeed News, Tom Dispatch and Truthdig.com, among other publications. He is a member of several activist organizations, including Veterans for Peace and About Face: Veterans against the War.

AMB. BONNIE JENKINS

AFTERNOON SPEAKER

Amb. Bonnie Jenkins is the founder and president of the Women of Color Advancing Peace, Security and Conflict Transformation (WCAPS) nonprofit organization. She is also a nonresident senior fellow at the Brookings Institution and president of Global Connections Empowering Global Change LLC., where she works with several academic institutions on issues of global health, infectious disease and defense innovation. Previously, she was an ambassador at the U.S. Department of State from 2009-17, where she served as coordinator for threat reduction programs in the Bureau of International Security and Nonproliferation. She served as the U.S. representative to the 30-nation G-7 Global Partnership Against the Spread of Weapons and Materials of Mass Destruction and chaired the Global Partnership in 2012. Jenkins was the Department of State's lead to the four Nuclear Security Summits that took place from 2010-16. Jenkins is also a retired Naval Reserves officer and received several awards for her service.

(NO REGISTRATION FEE THIS YEAR, BUT ORGANIZATIONAL CO-SPONSORS WELCOME)

SHIHO BURKE

Shiho Burke is the daughter of two survivors of the Hiroshima bombing. She grew up in Hiroshima and now advocates for abolishing nuclear weapons.

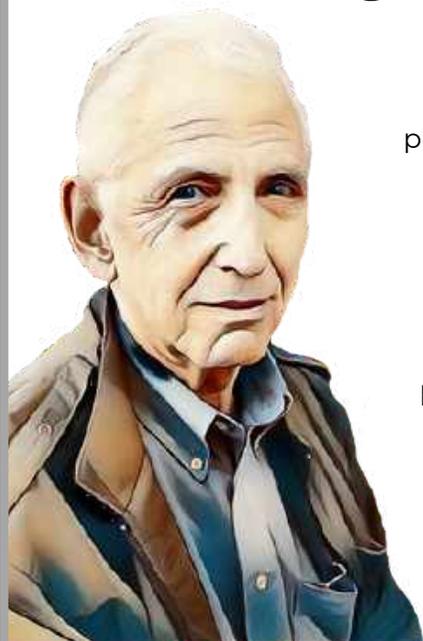

In this image, Shiho holds up a picture of her mother, who was 10 years old when the United States dropped the nuclear bomb.

75TH ANNIVERSARY COMMEMORATION OF THE HIROSHIMA AND NAGASAKI BOMBINGS

This commemoration will take place via Zoom, a video-conferencing platform. Go to bit.ly/HNAug9 to register, so you'll receive the information to participate.

While working for the RAND Corporation in 1969, Ellsberg privately photocopied a 7,000-page top secret study of America's intentions in Vietnam. He gave these "Pentagon Papers" to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and, two years later, to the New York Times, Washington Post, and 17 other newspapers. His main activity post-Vietnam has been anti-nuclear lecturing, writing, and activism, including work with Physicians for Social Responsibility. His latest book, The Doomsday Machine (2017), is a hair-raising account of the most dangerous arms build-up in the history of civilization, whose legacy threatens humanity's very survival.

DAN ELLSBERG

Also on August 9, the Rev. Robert Moore's pre-recorded sermon will be part of the virtual Sunday service for Christ Congregation of Princeton. In his sermon, he addresses the looming threat of—and reveals the potential solution for—nuclear escalation. Please forward to clergy and other interested parties, to share it on or before August 9.

Watch ahead of time or stay tuned for info on participating in the entire service: bit.ly/NuclearSermon

BLACK LIVES MATTER

As a pro-peace organization, CFPA recognizes the need to confront the everyday racist violence in the U.S. and abroad. We will continue to work in coalition with other groups in the pursuit of racial justice.

On June 2, the Coalition for Peace Action co-sponsored a protest in Princeton attended by thousands (left). The protest was organized by Choose, a non-profit created by two Princeton High School alumni to promote racial literacy.

On June 15, we co-sponsored a vigil in Cranbury attended by over 250 (right). The vigil was initiated by Isabel Sethi, a junior at Princeton High School, who has since stayed active in our organizing committees!

We have also been advocating in Congress for an end to the 1033 program, which allows the Department of Defense to send military-grade equipment and weapons to local law enforcement.

We encourage all of our members to stay tuned into the BLM movement, and stand against the increased militarism of police across the country.
